Late antique literature abounds with accounts of heightened acts of violence between religious groups: Roman judges torture Christian prisoners; monks massacre banqueters and destroy temples with their bare hands; Nicene and Arian Christians clash on darkened city streets; Christians attack Jewish synagogues and festival-goers. What about the late antique religious context encouraged such violence? Were some religious groups more or less tolerant than their counterparts? Were incidents of violence merely rhetorical, or do they reflect the real volatility of social interactions? And might the literary representation of violence be an act of violence itself or encourage physical acts of violence? This course investigates the intersection of violence and religion from the third through the seventh century C.E., paying particular attention to questions of definition, legitimacy, and the interpretation of violent acts. As we explore these questions, we will engage with ongoing theoretical discussions about identity, violence, social performance, and boundary construction.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES. This course has been approved to meet FSU’s Liberal Studies Humanities and Cultural Practice (LS-CUL) requirements and is designed to help you become a thoughtful patron of and participant in cultural practices. By the end of the course, students will:

1. Interpret intellectual or artistic works within a cultural context.
2. Use a cultural, artistic, or philosophical approach to analyze some aspect of human experience.

REQUIRED TEXTS. All students should purchase the following texts:

Graduate students should also purchase

Additional readings will be made available via Canvas/Library Reserves. Our in-library reserves are listed under REL 4290.
You should also have access to and follow The Chicago Manual of Style (17th edition) for your research. For biblical citations, follow The SBL Handbook of Style (2nd edition).

If you need additional background in the social and cultural history of the period, the following texts are helpful introductions:

  - This is a highly readable, undergraduate-level introduction to early Christianity through the late antique period.
  - A more technically and theoretically involved handbook on a variety of topics related to the study of late antique Christianity.

A wealth of resources can also be found on the North American Patristics Website at http://patristics.org/resources/other-resources-and-guides/

COURSE REQUIREMENTS.

1. Participation in Class Discussion. (40%)
   - This class is a seminar. While I may begin class with a brief lecture to contextualize our readings, a significant portion of our class meeting will involve active discussion.
   - The quality of the course will depend on the sustained commitment and contributions of all its members. Attendance and careful preparation of the assigned texts are essential.

2. Research portfolio. (50%)
   - The following components will be due throughout the course of the semester. I will provide feedback on each assignment, so that you can make revisions before turning in your final portfolio.
     1. Identification of incident and summary of primary source. A list of incidents will be made available on Canvas. Graduate students may propose an incident not included in this list.
     2. Identification of additional documentation regarding incident (e.g., archaeological remains, law codes, inscriptions, other literary sources).
     3. History/summary of scholarship related to incident.
     4. Critical analysis of incident, relying on one of the theoretical models we’ve read.
   - Graduate students will develop their work into a seminar-length paper (25-30 pages).

3. Presentation of research. (10%)

COURSE POLICIES

- According to federal definition, a credit hour consists of “one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours of out-of-class student work each week for approximately fifteen weeks for one semester or trimester hour of credit.” Students work at different paces, but most find it necessary to devote more time than specified in the federal definition. My expectation is that you will spend at least three hours preparing for class for every hour that you are in the classroom. Look ahead at your readings as some will take more time than others.
- Readings are listed in the course schedule according to the date they will be discussed. Be sure to read and annotate the assigned readings before coming to class and bring copies of the readings to class for reference.
- Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class meeting. More than two unexcused absences will result in the lowering of your final grade for this class by half a letter grade for each additional absence.
Excused absences will be considered on a case-by-case basis. Please contact me in advance regarding an excused absence and provide appropriate documentation, except in the case of emergency.

- If you experience an emergency, please contact me as soon as possible regarding your absence. In such cases, it is also a good practice to contact the Dean of Students at 850-644-2428.
- You are still responsible for all readings and assignments missed due to an absence. In the event of an extended emergency absence, please be in touch with the Dean’s office so that we can provide you the appropriate support.
- Late assignments will not be accepted without prior arrangement.

ACADEMIC HONOR POLICY
The Florida State University Academic Honor Policy outlines the University’s expectations for the integrity of students’ academic work, the procedures for resolving alleged violations of those expectations, and the rights and responsibilities of students and faculty members throughout the process. Students are responsible for reading the Academic Honor Policy and for living up to their pledge to “be honest and truthful and… [to] strive for personal and institutional integrity at Florida State University.” (FSU Academic Honor Policy at http://academichonor.fsu.edu/policy/policy.html).

The policy of the Dept. of Religion is that all violations of the FSU honor code, even first offenses, will result in a grade of 0 for the assignment and will be reported to the Office of the Dean of the Faculties. Additional sanctions may be imposed by FSU as part of the procedure for resolving academic honor allegations.

PLAGIARISM IS A SERIOUS OFFENSE. Using someone else’s ideas or words without proper documentation, allowing someone else to write your essay, or taking an essay from another person or place (i.e., the Internet) is plagiarism. Plagiarism is but one of several forms in violation of the Academic Honor Policy. If you are uncertain about whether a practice would be considered a violation, do not hesitate to ask me. My interest is not in penalizing you but rather in teaching you how to be part of an academic community and to understand your participation in a lineage of learning.

ADA REQUIREMENTS
Students with disabilities needing academic accommodation should
(1) register with and provide documentation to the Student Disability Resource Center; and
(2) bring a letter to the instructor indicating the need for accommodation and what type.

Please note that instructors are not allowed to provide classroom accommodation to a student until appropriate verification from the Student Disability Resource Center has been provided.

This syllabus and other class materials are available in alternative format upon request.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS
As stated in the Florida State General Bulletin, University regulations stipulate that no student shall be penalized for missing class due to a religious holiday. Please notify the instructor in advance if a religious holiday you plan to observe falls on a day scheduled for class.
UNIVERSITY ATTENDANCE POLICY

Excused absences include documented illness, deaths in the family and other documented crises, call to active military duty or jury duty, religious holy days, and official University activities. These absences will be accommodated in a way that does not arbitrarily penalize students who have a valid excuse. Consideration will also be given to students whose dependent children experience serious illness.

SYLLABUS CHANGE POLICY

Except for changes that substantially affect implementation of the evaluation (grading) statement, this syllabus is a guide for the course and subject to change with advance notice.
